The Normal Index.

E. H. Guppy & Son.

Wholesale

and

Retail

Book-Sellers

and

Stationers

60 South First Street
San Jose, Cal'a.

Established - 1873.

Goods not in Stock Ordered from the East or San Francisco.

A WORD TO THE WISE.

Suits to Order, from Twenty Dollars, upwards,

Pants to Order from Six Dollars, upwards

Good Business Suits, Ready Made, from Ten Dollars.

Fine Dress Suits, from Fifteen Dollars, upwards.

THE LARGEST

Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods,

Hats, Boots & Shoes in the County.

You can Save Five Dollars on Every Twenty Dollars You Spend by Purchasing Your Goods at T. W. Spring's Great American Store

[Terms Cash.]

San Jose, Cal'a.
OVERCOATS! OVERCOATS!
JUST RECEIVED
Our New Stock, which will be Sold at Remarkably Low Prices at Wieners, Wieners.
If You Want to Make Your Money Go a Long Ways.
BUY YOUR HATS AT WIENERS.
Suits can now be had cheaper than ever at Wieners.

No. 25 West Santa Clara Street,
Knox Block.
San Jose, California.

Wieners the Clothier Wieners
THE NORMAL INDEX.

DISCOUNT SALES OF WATCHES AND JEWELRY
NOW GOING ON AT

So. Depot Building. SMITH & RYDER'S. San Jose, California

KOENIG'S
Sell the Very Best Quality of FINE AND DURABLE SHOES

Buy Your Next Pair of Them.

WILLIAM FISCHER
THE Peoples' Grocer.

DEALER IN FAMILY GROCERIES.
Goods Delivered Free of Charge to Any Part of the City.

Under the Electric Tower

75 WEST SANTA CLARA STREET, SAN JOSE, CAL.

SMILING YOUNG GROCER.
Dealers in
PURE GROCERIES

Choice Fresh Fruits, Foreign & Domestic.

JAMES J. BENNETT.
Corner First and St. John Sts., San Jose, Cal.

GUNCKEL & BARKER
IDENTISTS

No. 18 South First Street, San Jose, Cal.

RALEY & SPENCER
Wholesale and Retail
FRUIT DEALERS.

No. 35 East Santa Clara Street.
Opposite New Odd Fellows Temple, San Jose.

Magnus Gymnasium.
88 Santa Clara St., San Jose, Cal's.

General Class, Tuesdays and Fridays, from 8 to 10 o'clock, p. m.
Ladies' Class, Wednesdays and Saturdays, from 7 to 8 p.m.
Normal and University Class, Saturday, from 1 to 3 p.m.
THE NORMAL INDEX.

BUY YOUR RUBBER GOSSAMERS!
ZEPHYR WORSTED, 5 CTS PER OZ., THE VERY BEST.
Dress Goods, Gloves, Handkerchiefs, Ties, Laces, Ribbons, Hosiery, Jersey Waists, Walking Jackets, Cloaks, Merino & Wool Underwear.

AT THE VERY LOWEST PRICES FOR BEST GOODS.

Gentleman Students,
You will save your money by buying your Gloves, Ties, Hosiery, Collars, Cuffs, Merino and Wool Underwear.
Laundried and Unlaundried White Shirts, All Specialties with Us,

Our Prices are Cautiously The Least.

Yours Truly,      O. A. HALE & CO.

GEORGE W. WELCH,
Bookseller, Stationer,

AND

MUSIC DEALER

NO. 17 EAST SANTA CLARA STREET.
SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA.

A COMPLETE ASSORTMENT.
Of all Books Used in the Normal Kept Constantly on Hand.

Also a Large Variety of Standard and Miscellaneous Books, Fine Stationery, Gold Pens, Cutlery, Sheet Music, Etc., Etc.

Normal Students are appreciating the advantages by purchasing at my store, and are reselling themselves of my prices in all articles needed by them.

17 East Santa Clara Street,
Three doors from the Bank of San Jose.

GEO. W. WELCH.
The Normal Index.

SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY THE
SENIOR CLASSES OF THE STATE NORMAL SCHOOL.

Terms: Seventy-five cents per year; 10 cents per copy.
Advertising Rates furnished on application.
Subscribers not receiving Four Issues regularly will please notify the Assistant Manager.

EDITORIAL BOARD.
H. F. CLARK, Editor-in-Chief.
FANNIE McKEAN.
MYRA A. PAGES.
M. C. SPAFFORD.
M. E. LYNCH.
L. J. LATHWESN, Business Manager.
H. G. SQUIER, Assistant Manager.

JOHNSON & TUPPER, PRINTERS, WASHINGTON BLOCK, SAN JOSE.

SOON, very soon, will this term be over, and the present Senior A's will leave the Normal, never to enter it again as pupils. With every member of the class is a feeling of gladness that the several years of toil are soon to meet with their reward; yet with the joy is mingled sorrow, with the sweet the bitter. For when they depart from the Normal halls, they leave behind them many kind friends and pleasant memories. Is it strange they should feel sad, knowing that ere long they must part, "it may be for years and it may be forever," from the school-mates that have shared together the sorrows and the joys, the failures and successes of school life?

Their work as pupils is almost finished, and they will soon enter upon a new field of labor—that of the teacher. In this new work let each strive not only to increase his pupils' store of knowledge, but also to make of them worthy men and women.

Too much cannot be said of the evil that is fastening itself upon our youth throughout the nation, that of the purchase and eager perusal of vast quantities of cheap flashy literature with which the market is flooded. Hardly a month passes in which we do not hear of some youthful adventurer running away from home to ape the heroes of such books as "The Trail of the White Viper," "Red River Rovers," "Revolver Billy," "Nebraska Charley," etc.

Since we cannot stop the publication of such vile trash, let us do the next best thing, prevent their perusal. Here is a work in which the teacher must do much; when each instructor does all in his or her power to arouse in the pupil a hatred for all reading that is bad, vile, and degrading, and a love for that which is good, pure, and elevating, then will trashy literature cease to be so dangerous.

Perhaps the foremost of college customs throughout the country is that of class distinctions in the way of some insignia adopted and worn by the students. This practice when accompanied by no antagonistic spirit is perfectly harmless and proper. The University Senior sports his "plug," the pupil of an academic institution parades a class pin and now the Senior A's of the Normal are identified by their artistic badges of blue and gold. While not so conspicuous, perhaps, as the more pretentious plug hat, the Senior bow excels in being adaptable to the fair sex, who constitute a large majority of the students at the Normal.

A cheerful, sunny disposition is one of the greatest blessings ever bestowed upon man. Not only is it a duty to endeavor to acquire this disposition, but to succeed. How often do we hear the remark, "It is not the work that hurts me, but the worry." This should not be. One ought to stand up manfully against all trouble and, "By opposing, end it." We unconsciously foster the habit of fretting by allowing little pinpricks to rend our skin so sensitive that the attack finds us an easy victim. The great Ruher of the universe, has prescribed certain fixed laws which govern mortal man, and no amount of rebellion against these laws is going to alter them.
It would be much wiser for us to submit gracefully to the inevitable, than to be assuring ourselves continually, and trying to convince other people, that affairs are in a very bad condition, and the only possible change will be for the worse.

"All weakness falters, fumes, is full of air.
While Power and Peace of times are reconciled;
Frail rivalles fly. Earth, whirled amid the stars.
Wakes not anested bird or slumbering child."

THE second number of The Index has received about the amount of promiscuous criticism that usually greets the first appearance of such journals. We solicit criticism for it largely by listening to, and profiting by the advise of others that any one can improve. It would be strange indeed if all critics were just.
It would not be at all surprising if among all our readers, some one should mis-terpret our opinions and misrepresented us.
We can make a full allowance for misinterpretations for they are inevitable. We can ignore all silly ridicule, and treat with silent contempt, all malicious criticism; for such things are better answered if left unnoticed. But we cannot overlook the downright falsehood that represented us as making a statement an idea of which we never entertained. Our readers will remember that in our last issue in discussing "class spirit", we said that it is perfectly right and proper for a Senior to wear any insignia of his rank that he chooses. Now a youthful editor so far disdis-gards the truth as to say that The Index advoces the Normalites not to wear "singles", like the darky who said he wouldn't be a white man if he could. Perhaps the editor was so intent upon stirring up his spirit that he felt justified in compromising the truth. Now this is seemingly a very small matter. Concerning the mere facts of the case, it is. But the young editor, if he does not know already has better learn now that the magnitude of such an offense is not proportional to the importance of the facts concerned.
A strict adherence to the truth is one of the first requisites in editorial as well as other work.

THAT an institution of so much importance and having so many students as the Normal, should pay so little attention to literary societies and athletic sports, has been a source of surprise to many. A few years ago the Philomathean and Varsity societies were recognized institutions of the Normal, but they are now matters of the past. The suppression of these for various reasons has left the school without any regular public society. True there are three class societies besides the Young Men's Normal Debating Club, but these are in no wise representative of the whole school. The absence of representative societies is not attributable to any lack of talent but rather to the increasing thoroughness of the school work and the severity of spare time among the students.

WHEN the great Carlyle was a young man engaged in the profession of teaching, it is said his cruelty and tyranny produced upon his pupils such an effect that not all the well-deserved fame of the author in after-years could efface from the memory of these pupils his injustice; nor could the merits of his productions inspire in their hearts any other feeling than one of dislike for the man, talented though he might be, who ruthlessly trampled upon the trust and innocence of childhood.

OUR readers have noticed, no doubt, that the hair cut very short, and reached back, is growing in favor with the young men. Some, tired we suppose, of combing their hair, shag this so close to the head that the scalp is plainly visible; this may be very cool and labor-saving, but strange as it may seem, is unsafe. We imagine we hear you say, as you complacently rub your hand over your clipped crop, "How ridiculous! Short hair dangerous! Posh!" But listen until I tell you wherein the danger lies. The Evangelist, speaking of cropping the hair close to the head, says,
"It is injurious as well as disfiguring. The hair is a conductor of electricity to the brain, and should never be less than two inches in length.
Unless the facts of the case are taught in the schools so that the boys are warned, in a few more generations, there will be a general softening of the brain among our masculine population."

Now boys, do take warning and allow your hair to grow to a reasonable length. We do not wish softening of the brain to increase among the young men. There is quite a plenty affected with it now, if one can judge by the increasing number of dudes.

THE spice of every teacher's work is originality. He may read all the educational journals extant, and may try to execute the plans laid down therein; but if he lacks the power to vary the plans to suit the wants of his school, his work will fail to accomplish the desired end.

THE second number of The Index is presented in an enlarged and improved form. Four pages of reading matter have been added, and the combination of gold and black has been replaced by the present colors. Other improvements will be made from time to time when deemed advisable.
ALUMNI NOTES.

The editor of this department desires the active cooperation of alumni and under-graduates in forwarding material for notices in this column. Contributions will please state name, class, residence, and anything else of interest to alumni and under-graduates.

Miss Nannie Calhoun, May ’85, is teaching at Windsor, Cal.

Miss Nannie E. Tuttle, May ’85, is teaching at Water ville, Cal.

Miss Dora A. Perry, Xmas ’84, is teaching at Susan, Saline Co.

Miss Nettie Murray, Xmas ’84, is teaching at Benton, Monza Co.

Miss Mollie Walsh, May ’83, is teaching at Coon Hollow, Eldorado Co.

Miss Kate Wilmot, May ’83, is at San Simon, San Luis Obispo Co.

Miss Nina F. Williams, Xmas ’84, is teaching at San Juan, San Benito Co.

At least accounts, W. W. Locke, May ’85, was at Locke ford, San Joaquin Co.

Miss Minnie Galliano, May ’85, is teaching in San Joaquin district, Alameda Co., Cal.

H. C. Petray, May ’83, is principal of the Guerneville school, Sonoma Co.

Miss Margaret Richmond, May ’85, is teaching at Upper Matola, Humboldt Co.

Miss Annie L. Taylor, May ’85, is engaged in teaching at Meridan, Sutter Co., Cal.

Miss Kittie S. Ogilvie has just taken charge of the school at Wildflower, Fresno Co.

Miss Annie Murray, Xmas ’84, is engaged in teaching at the schools of Port Wine, Sierra Co.

Miss Julia Denbeaux, Xmas ’84, is teaching in Valencia school district, Aptos, Santa Cruz County.

Misses Kate and Jennie McCarthy are engaged in teaching schools at Cape Town, California.

Mr. Frank R. Canef, May ’85, began his first term of school at Cedarville, Modoc County, October 5th.

Miss Cora Wyckoff, May ’85, is teaching at Pfeiffer district, 30 miles south of Monterey, Monterey Co.

Mr. T. J. McGrath, Xmas ’84, has been engaged in teaching the public school at his old home St. Louis, Sierra Co.

Wm. Orin Hodget, May ’85, is at present engaged in teaching school about fifteen miles from Millville, Shasta Co.

Miss G. Annie Girdner, Xmas ’84, is teaching in the primary department of the public school of Orland, Colusa Co., and reports being well pleased with her school and surroundings.

THE MODERN TURK.

[Written for "The Index."]

In August at his boarding place,
A Mid-roller, dreaming of the hour,
When he should fill a Senior's space
And glory in his power.

Dreamed that through hall and street he wore
The badges of a conqueror;
In dreams he shone in Training School,
He sat upon the platform high,
At ease when no one was nigh.
Resigned his pupils with a sigh.

He'd governed by the golden rule.

The term past on, our Mid-roller woke
That bright dream was his last.
He woke to hear the Seniors cry,
"Prepare! they come! the test is nigh!"
"Go get your pen—don't spill the ink—
Put on your thinking cap, and think!
"'Tis merit only that will tell;"
"We wish you victory. Fare you well."

All woke to hear their teachers say,
"Write—for this must be done to-day;"
"Write—we must finish algebra;
"Write—for the honor of Middle A Hygiene and chemistry."

They wrote like heroes long and well;
They piled the desk with papers high.
Some conquered, but one dreamer fell
To rise no more and try.

His proud surviving comrades saw
His sickly smile when rang their proud hurrah.
But their hard work's begun;
For now they march in Senior A,
And sometimes languishingly they say,
"We left him chewing gum."

It is not easy to be funny upon call, but here is a recipe warranted to make a jolly humorist every time:

Take a pedagogue with an infinitesimal quantity of brain, eyes as blind as a fish from Mammoth Cave, cuticle as thick as the iron-clad monitor's, and hands as numerous as the suckers of an octopus, add forty thousand cubic inches of patience and an equal amount of endurance, with sixty hours to each square minute of the day. Immerse all in a seething caldron of four hundred and fifty Normalites, and allow to boil for ten weeks; then add four hundred and fifty gallons of salt water and a sprinkling of public fault-finding. Serve hot.
ALL SORTS.

The zoology classes are planning an excursion to Monterey in the near future.

Students of household science lie awake nights trying to recall some original experiments.

The Senior B's are having their manners and morals revolutionized at the rate of one hour per week.

Why is a Senior youth like a telescope? Because he is so easily drawn out, seen through, and shut up.

A new way to write a character sketch: Begin with a funny story, end with "glittering generalities," and fill in with quotations.

The Senior A's take long journeys out in the country to practice the inflections and gestures for their prospective graduating parts.

Some of the Senior A's substitute a "shaking exercise" for the prescribed fifteen minutes' walk before breakfast. The principal seriously objects to the innovation.

Professor Allen has distributed cards (presumably "rewards of merit") among the Senior B's. The latter are trying to decipher the hieroglyphics with which the cards are covered.

Teacher in oral instruction (developing the term "transparency")—"You see, class, anything we can see through is transparent. Now, Johnny, give me an example of something that is transparent." Johnny—"The crack of a door."

In the hurry of getting up the first number of The Index, the copy of the "ad" of Messrs. Spaw & Whipple was mislaid, and no time given to verify that written from memory. Thus the printed copy was not the same as the original.

From all appearance, the Alpha Beta Society is to be a thing of the past. Bows were sold at prices ranging from $1.50 to $1.75. Some of the Junior young men must intend to enjoy themselves the balance of this term judging from the number of croquet sets they carried home last Friday evening. Possibly they were for their lady friends.

The Senior B's are making wonderful revolutions in logic. One member of the class, somewhat brighter than the others, has proved that the young men of the class are the model young men of the school. She should take care not to disclose her premises, else the young men of other classes may be treated in the same way.

At a recent meeting of the Normal Drill Corps the following members were elected officers to serve for the ensuing ten weeks: Captain, W. O. Peck, of the Senior Class; First Lieutenant, A. E. Shumate, of the Middle Class; Second Lieutenant, J. J. Holmes, of the Senior Class; H. G. Squier was appointed First Sergeant.

The Junior A classes can now boast of a society. It was organized several weeks ago, but did not get fairly to work until last week, when a constitution was adopted. The advantages of class societies can hardly be over-estimated, and it is hoped that this one will prove a success. The officers are: President, Mr. Elliott; Vice President, Miss Mathias; Secretary, Miss Schultzburg.

Two new book cases have been added to the normal library, each filled with a choice collection of books. How many of the alumni, teaching in the far-off districts, would like to spend their spare hours in the dear old library! Many of us now wander idly about the halls; but the day will soon come when we, too, shall wish for this golden opportunity which now lies within our grasp.

The Senior B's now observe the regular teachers of the Training Department. Each day some one is called upon to conduct a class through a five-minute exercise. Only those who have tried it can tell with what fear and trembling the poor Senior advances to face not only a small class of children, but fifteen classmate observers and a Training School teacher besides. He who can go calmly through such an ordeal ought to be awarded a medal.

Senior A's, Miss Walker offers a prize to any that can guess the following before the publication of the answers in the next issue:

- When is the child nature seen in its most natural light?
- Why did the Senior B classes have reason to expect a Spanish entertainment at your reception?

Why does the Normal need an Orpheus or a modern Asclepius occasionally on Thursday mornings?

The Junior A's are fully initiated into the work of zoology. Some of the numbers are so apt as to be able to distinguish an ornithorhynchus platypus from foraminifera with pseudopodia.

It is said that the enthusiasm of a few of the younger ladies is so ardent that they even comb their hair in such a manner as to represent certain animals.

They have also learned that a bee or wasp can be safely handled with care, but better with a pair of tongs.

THE NORMAL INDEX.

THE SENIOR RECEPTION.

The reception of the Senior A's in honor of the B's came off on Friday, October 16th, and was a most enjoyable affair throughout. The basement of the main building had been extensively and tastefully decorated for the occasion. The "boys" had, with much labor, carried the piano from the assembly hall down two flights of stairs and had carefully deposited it in one corner. A temporary stage was arranged at one end of the hall, Prof. E.'s portable blackboard was pressed into service, while sundry bottles of chemicals marked "Poison" kept guard over the whole. Soon after seven the vanguard appeared and from that time until long past eight, constant additions were made to the assemblage. Social talks and games were in order until the bell rang for the curtain, when the following program was rendered:

Class Song: "Senior A's"
Arranged by Miss McAlmon, Mr. Adams

"I'm looking" Miss McAlmon, Mr. Adams
"Hillbilly" Miss Murray, Mr. Ogden
"Youth" Miss Spofford, Mr. Clark, Mr. Strong

Instruments: Mr. Spofford, Mr. Clark, Mr. Strong

"Faith" Miss Cox

Character Song
Miss Cradock, Mr. Brown, Mr. Johnson
"Underneath the Canopy" Miss McKenney, Miss Shingle
"Elaine" And she filled up her eyes and loved him

"Napoleon" Miss Green, Mr. Adams

"Home, Sweet Home" Miss McGrown, Mr. Adams

"Good Night" Miss McAlmon, R. D. Spofford

Owing to the illness of Miss Parsons the quartette "Good Night" was omitted.

Space forbids our following out the program in detail; but the hearty applause, the frequent encores demanded, and the satisfied expression on the faces of all present testified to the universal enjoyment. And as the familiar strains of "Home, Sweet Home," called the students to their respective homes there was heard the universal sentiment that occasions of friendly converse and fraternal greeting are the sweetest bonds that unite the Low and the High.

Several members of the Faculty graced the occasion with their presence.

"Oh! I thought we were going to have something to eat," murmured one of the B's disconsolately.

On the way home: She—"Would there were more of them at the Normal?" He—"What, socials?" She—"No; young men."

The light at the rear of the stage acted like a magic lantern in throwing the figures of those behind the scenes on the semi-transparent curtains. The audience was thus favored with several acts not down on the program.

Coal was in great demand to replenish empty candy boxes. At the invitation of one of the young ladies, Mr. G. tested the quality, and declared, as he punctuated his sentence with several aeronautic exclamation points, that it was not "lite-twee-minutes."

MY FIRST DAY AT SCHOOL.

EVERY fold has its black sheep and many families have their one bad boy. This incorrigible urchin always occupies an important position in the social affairs of the nation. For his benefit, the number of reform schools throughout our land is instituted. To him is attributed the origin of the "hoodlum" element which plagues our country from the Atlantic to the Pacific. It is he who plays "shookey," who goes fishing on Sunday, and who forms, for the teacher, a problem incapable of solution. Whether or not his reputation is an enviable one is doubtless questionable, and while I never perhaps enjoyed the name of being an ideal bad boy, I have tasted many of the pleasures in which he is said to revel.

My great delight was in listening to my older brother as he read of the exploits of Tom Sawyer. This wayward youth was, in my way of thinking, a hero worthy of the closest imitation, but it seemed that fate always conspired against me in my attempts to follow his footsteps. I could never run away from home without being sent back by the neighbors. No mysterious robber's cave with hidden booty awaited my exploration. I found ample field for enjoying mischiefs at home, however, and many were the times I heard myself mentioned as a suitable subject for the reform school.

Never having been to school I had an instinctive dread of the schoolroom and all that appertained thereto. The master had supposed to be a kind of an educated ogre whose sole function was to tauntize small boys. This opinion was confirmed when one day visiting the school that my brother was attending, I saw one boy dextrously spanked, another sent into the corner with armed clothespins on his ears, and worse than all, my brother himself, for innocently attempting to imprison a fly in a crack in his desk, sent across the room and compelled to sit between two girls (who probably were as much punished as he).

"The wish is father to the thought," and as the prisoner by day after day languishing for a reversion of his sentence, comes to think that he will be liberated, so did I finally begin to think the greatest affliction that ever crossed the path of boyhood, being sent to school, would in some way never befall me. I was doomed to disappointment, however, for me one day when the best tree in the orchard had been hacked down in true Washington style; when two cats, after being tied together by the tails, were hung over a clothes-line and left to mutilate each other; when my younger brother's hair had all been cut off in a paguistic fashion, and his eye nearly put out from personating Albert in the play of William Tell; when my sister had been nearly frightened to death by a representative King Philip in war paint and feathers, with tomahawk and scalping knife, and I had been accused as the author of all the mischief, my father, in whose absence the misdeeds had been committed, declared that I could no longer be tolerated and must be sent to school.

Never did a prisoner at the bar receive his sentence with a more sinking heart than did I hear this declaration of my father. Visions of the school-master's tall figure and eagle eyes confronted me. I could already feel the merciless "whack," of the ferule. The many cruelties I had seen and especially my brother's punishment were still fresh in my mind. I shudder even now at the recollection of the night preceding my first school-day, how in my dreams a great green-eyed ogre was pulling my ears and beating me with a birch rod, how this evil-visaged monster was prodding me with an ox-goad and subjecting me to all the torments of Satan, but let us draw a curtain over the harrowing scene. Suffice it to say that I woke next morning safe and sound and ready to meet my fate. It is probable that I derived much consolation from the fact that I was to be with my big brother, whom I thought able to protect me from any great danger.

After receiving the parental injunctions "to be a good boy and learn all I could," I trudged along to school holding tightly the hand of my protector and besieging him with questions about what they did with boys when they first went to school. Upon entering the school-room, my brother showed me to a seat and the master, observing a stranger, came forward to meet me. My first impulse to fly from his presence was arrested by a cheery "Good morning, my little lad; so you are coming to school, are you! Glad to see you," etc. I received no initiatory flogging, neither did the great ruler impale me with an ox-goad. No, he simply asked me a few questions, expressed his surprise that I had been taught to read so well at home, gave me some directions about my lessons, and sent me out upon the play ground. The long breath of relief I drew, I shall never forget. The terrors of the school-room were gone, and at the ringing of the bell, I marched back to my seat fearlessly and resolutely.

That evening I walked home fully convinced that the school-room was not such a terrible place or the master such a frightful monster as I had supposed; although the above episode occurred fourteen years ago, the circumstances attending it are as fresh in my memory as if they had happened but yesterday and to my dying day I shall remember my first day at school.

EXAMINATION PAPERS.

FOR YOUNG LADIES ENTERING THE LADIES' HISTORICAL FALLS.

ALGEBRA.

Solve the following equation:

\[ x + y = \text{equal to } z. \]

\[ y = \text{a summer at Newport.} \]

\[ x = \text{a designing mamma.} \]

Find the square of a crazy-soft.

ARITHMETIC.

If Susie has one new dress, and Clara has two new dresses, how many more callers will Clara have during an evening?

If Arabella likes Claude, and Claude likes somebody else, what does Arabella think of somebody else?

HISTORICAL.

Solve the following syllogisms:

"I must have a new bonnet, John."

"Why, my dear!"

"Because."

"I hate those Smith girls."

"Everybody seems to like them."

"I don't; they're horrid."

GEOMETRY.

Problem—To construct a brown-stone front and establishment on the base of a nine-hundred-dollar salary.

Square a milliner's bill.

Find the cube root of sassafras.

SURVEYING.

Take Broadway as a base line for shopping. Departure—9:30 A. M.

The distance—a block.

State the time required to buy a spool of cotton and return home so as to arrive before six o'clock dinner.

ASTRONOMY.

State whether a star or a crescent is the more proper setting for diamonds.

State the reason for the son's declination to take the hint concerning a moonlight drive.

NATURAL HISTORY.

What bird is most appropriate for a walking-hat?

State why the nose of the pug is retroussé?

—L. R. Colton in Puck.
LIFE'S JOURNEY.

For every life there is a summit. Happy are they who gain it, and sad the lot of those who faint and fail in the struggle. Short or long to the top it can only be ascended by persistent climbing. There must be ambition to do and dare or the prize will not be secured.

Have you in the vigor of youth begun the journey? Already are you tired and weary? Are you resting in slothful indolence? Hoping for wings or sails to bear you aloft without effort? Long before manhood's prime you will miss the top and go down hill. Arouse for another effort. At the base is the thorn, at the summit the crown. There is no escape from the one or the other in the life journey. Which will you have, wealth or poverty, comfort or sorrow? Decide in the dew of morning.

At high noon stand out a man on the peak of endeavor, wearing your own crown._Exchange.

DID it ever occur to you that a boy ought to like school as well as he does holing woodchucks? You say: "Certainly, a liking for what he has no capacity for liking; a voluntary following of what he doesn't wish to follow, these are truly impossible; but that he may have just as great a desire as to go to school as he has for going fishing or running a race, is not only within the bounds of possibility, but great probability. A real school is a place where all the child's activities are brought into voluntary exercise. The Creator has made activity a law of every animal's necessities. In His great school all the lower species are trained to exercise their fullest freedom. They get what little education they do get, by experience, and in this manner their highest possible development is attained. The same law applies to man, for he is in kind not different from other animals. The difference is in degree and capacity. He grows by exercise along certain fixed lines. This growth is pleasurable when natural, and only repellent when unnatural. The means of their development is voluntary, pleasurable exercise. Now, when a pupil finds more joy out of school than in it, it proves that the necessary elements of his growth are not found there. He must get his food some where else. His whole nature demands it; he must have it or grow up starved and unnatural. The first and last questions the true teacher asks are: What do my pupils want? How can I give it to them? They must have healthy growth by voluntary joyous exercise. I must provide this for them. Whatever else I may not do, this I must do. They must be made to love the school, with all that pertains to it, more than any other place excepting home. If they do not, there is a fault somewhere, and it is my duty to find out where it is._The School Journal.

WHY should the teacher, especially the lady teacher, look so sad? Enter the schoolroom and see if you do not find her with a face that is easily corroded into a frown. Is it a good thing for her to permit herself to wear a cross face? Will it attract the pupils towards their school work? President Hunter tells the teacher she must smile, and that quite frequently, if she would make the government of her class an easy thing. The sad-looking face will probably be explained on the ground of troublesome pupils. But a man in a schoolroom does not, as a rule, look cross. Please think over this matter; look in the glass, ladies, and see if you are getting wrinkles in the schoolroom._Exchange.

It is right to be contented with what we have but not with what we are.

Advice is seldom welcome. Those who need it most like it the least.

In diving to the bottom for pleasure, we bring up more gravel than pearls.

Hell gate is blown up but the proprietor is still doing business at the old stand._Burlington Free Press.

The seat of knowledge is in the head, of wisdom in the heart. We are sure to judge wrongly if we do not feel right.

Professor.—"Name an oxide." Student—"Leather." Professor—"Oxide of what?" Student—"Oxide of beef._Boston Beechoon.

Freshman Professor (holding up a written exercise)—"I perceive this one was copied from outside helps, the student who handed it in will remain." Half a dozen remained._Yale Record.

If you meet a student with a careworn face and abstract air, from whose lips issue unintelligible sounds resembling "rill" "hill" "still" and who occasionally utters something that sounds suspiciously like "meet her", do not think he is an escaped lunatic or a desperate lover contemplating elopement. He is simply a Senior B, frantically endeavoring to be able to convince Miss Bennett that a Shakespeare still lives.

The poem at the end of the obituary of Miss Parson, is from Longfellow, and should be enclosed with quotation marks. In the hurry of correcting the proof, we overlooked it.
VOICE OF OUR EXCHANGES.

The Normal Index is the name of a creditable monthly paper started by the Senior class in the State Normal School at San Jose.—S. F. Daily Report.

We have received the initial number of the Normal Index, published by the Senior Class of the Normal. The literary and local parts of the Index are a credit to the class and their school, but the editorials are rather flighty and "fine."—The Epoch.

The first number of The Normal Index, a monthly paper published by the Senior classes of the State Normal School, is a highly creditable product. * * * The enterprise deserves encouragement, not only because of its brightness, the modesty of the editors, and the originality and ability shown in the contributed pieces, but also for the reason that it is in itself a good educator and is an exponent of the work accomplished at the school. In the latter sense it reflects unusually high credit on the school, as it shows that thorough training in the use of the English language that is so rare in the schools and that is so essential to an education. The importance of this truth should not be overlooked. Writing is the test of scholarship. Viewed in this light, with the work in this little paper as a test, the Normal School is evidently accomplishing a great deal in education and is an honor to the State.—San Jose Daily Herald.

HIDDEN ROCKS.

"For the Index:"

A youth astride a swiftly wheel,
Went whirling down the street;
The "silent steel" responsive met,
The pressure of his feet.

And thus the level dusty road,
The cyclist glided o'er;
Unmindful of the awful fate,
That for him was in store.

In common with this rushing world,
The cyclist's aim was high;
Too high, it seemed, for true success:
"To pass a team or die."

In striving hard to gain his end,
But heedless not the ground;
The cyclist landed on his head,
(A hidden rock was found).

The moral to this simple rhyme,
Is plain to all. It shocks!
You, who in life would sail so high,
Look out for hidden rocks. —H.

LITERARY NOTES.

Mr. E. R. Sill, who is coming so prominently before the literary world, has an excellent article in the November Atlantic Monthly, entitled "Principles of Criticism."

An article in the November number of the Overland Monthly by A. A. Sargent on "The Wyoming Anti-Chinese Riot," is worthy of careful study by any who would become informed upon the subject from an unprejudiced standpoint.

Lord Tennyson's next volume, says the London World, will be a miscellaneous gathering mostly made up of lyrics, not all new work. There will be an echo of "Poverty, Poverty, Poverty," in another dialect; a reprint of the "Charge of the Light Brigade," and "Hands all Round," also of "Early Spring," a poem written for the American Youth's Companion; the address composed in honor of the recently wedded royal pair; a series of epitaphs on departed great and good men, besides other gloomings of rare and transient merit. The general title of the volume has not yet been decided, but I understand that it will be issued in time for Christmas.

IN MEMORIAM.

Death has brought sorrow to our midst.
On the 30th day of October, at eight o'clock P. M. at his home in Millville, Shasta County, George W. Martin passed quietly from this life to the one beyond. He was a graduate of the State Normal School, a member of the May class of '85.

On his return to school, last January after the holiday vacation, his health gradually failed, and late in February he was attacked with a hemorrhage of the lungs, after which he was, for a time confined to his room. He rallied a little from the attack, but soon became so weak that he was unfit for school duties. On the fifth day of March, he bade his many friends in San Jose farewell, and went to his mountain home. His condition seemed unchanged for a time, but the dread disease, consumption, soon developed itself and, though his friends and relatives did all in their power to save him, death at last released him from his earthly troubles. He passed away without a struggle, ready for the master's call, which he realized had come.

Though compelled to leave school before time for graduation, so well had he performed his labors here that he was awarded the diploma he had so fairly earned.

As a pupil, he was attentive and industrious, doing good work, and so conducting himself as to win the respect and love of his teachers and the esteem of his fellow students. He was warm hearted and true, ever anxious to promote the welfare of his fellows. As a son, he was loving and dutiful, an example worthy of imitation.

He was an upright, Christian gentleman, imbued with a love of purity and integrity, that made his life one of usefulness; and those who knew him best, feel, in his death, the loss of a trustworthy friend.

Mr. Martin was a member of the Masonic Fraternity, and as a Mason was a "true and faithful brother among us." His mourning brethren laid his remains to rest, in their beautiful and imposing burial services paying their last and tribute to their beloved dead, leaving him to sleep the sleep of peace, till time shall be no more.

MISS EVA PARSONS.

Again, we are called upon to chronicle the death of a beloved companion. In this city, on October 22nd, 1883, Miss Eva Parsons, aged eighteen years, was called to her celestial home. Miss Parsons was at the time of her death, one of the most promising students of the State Normal School, and a member of the Xmas class of '83. She entered the school in 1883, and by her untiring labors and her ever helpful spirit gained the respect and esteem of all who knew her. As a testimonial to the love and respect felt, for Miss Parsons, the school after holding appropriate services, closed for the day. The desk which she had occupied in the assembly hall was covered with a bed of white roses, the name "Eva" being prettily wrought in heliotrope, across the top. The Senior A class of which she was a member, adopted resolutions expressive of love and respect for their departed classmate.

The first of the disease that was to terminate fatally, manifested itself on the previous Friday evening, when she was in attendance at a class social. At first the attack was not considered dangerous, but the disease gradually developed until, after a brief illness of but five days, grim Death stepped in and claimed his victim. The remains were followed to the train by her grief stricken friends and classmates; thence to be conveyed to her far-off home, Oakdale, Stanislaus County.

As a friend, she was one to whom any one would go for advice or assistance in time of trouble, one who was ever ready to minister to the wants of others. Her chief desire in life was to better the lives of those with whom she associated. As a daughter, she was faithful and true to her trust. As a student, she did her work so well as to win and hold the love and respect of all her teachers. As a woman, she was upright and just, ever showing forth all womanly virtues. Her many friends deeply mourn her untimely death.

Resolutions of love and respect, by the Senior A class of the State Normal School, in memory of C. Eva Parsons.

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Heavenly Father in His wisdom to call from us our dearly beloved friend and classmate, Eva Parsons; and,

WHEREAS, There is lost to us a faithful classmate, a devoted friend, a loving companion; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, her classmates, while we bow to the will of Divine Providence, deplore that we are deprived of one whose life was a lesson, whose example was so worthy of imitation, who was, in all ways, so fit to live.

Resolved, That we offer to her bereaved parents and relatives, our most heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be published in the daily papers of San Jose, in the Normal Index, in the Oakdale Wheatgrower of Stanislaus County, and that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to her bereaved parents.

MARGARET GRAHAM,
CHAS. C. ADAMS,
MAY COOK,
HEMAN G. SQUIRES,
LILIAN A. CROS, Committee.

State Normal School, San Jose, Cal., Oct. 22, 1883.

A DAY IN FLORENCE.

[For "The Index."]

To the lover of art Rome is the only city in Italy, the land of art and of artists, that can compare with Florence. For the historian, it is filled with places of interest and importance, and for the novelist, it abounds in old houses and ancient palaces which he can people with creatures of his imagination, and with ruins and churches, descriptions of which would be worthy of a Scott or an Irving. From the heights of Fiesole, northeast of Florence, can be seen the whole valley of the Arno gradually sloping towards the sea, and, "as a water-lily rests on the mirror of the lake, so rests on this lovely ground, the still more lovely Florence, with its everlasting works and its inexhaustible riches."

Florence is situated on both sides of the River Arno, which, though an insignificant stream during the summer months, in the winter, fed by the mountain rivulets, swells to a yellow torrent rushing toward the sea, threatening to carry it with the strong stone walls that form its banks.

As in all other Italian cities, the streets of Florence are paved with large flat blocks of stone and are so narrow (and the houses so high) that in many of them the sun shines for but a short time during the day.

The banks of the Arno are connected by eight bridges, the most curious of which, though not the oldest, is the Ponte Vecchio, or "Old Bridge," said to have existed as early as the Roman period. Both sides of the bridge are lined with antiquated jewelry shops, presenting a very unattractive appearance from the outside, but within, filled with turquoise, fairy-like filagree silver, strings of pearls, and beautiful Florentine mosaics. The view of the river from some of these windows is beyond description, especially at night when the lamps along the river are lighted, and, with the moon, are reflected on the surface of the water.

In about the center of the city is the Duomo, or Cathedral, which is made entirely of blocks of colored marble surmounted by a huge dome from the top of which one can have an extensive view of the whole valley of the Arno.

Beside the Cathedral stands Giotto’s Campanile or Bell-tower, which is considered the finest tower in existence. Like the Cathedral, it is built of blocks of colored marble, the lower story of the exterior being adorned with statues and bas-reliefs. A winding stair-case of four hundred and fourteen steps leads to the top where the view is almost as fine as from the dome of the Cathedral. The topmost story contains several large bells, to whose deep tones Dante, Ariosto, and Savonarola have so often listened.

Opposite the Cathedral stands the Baptistery of St. John, where for the last seven centuries the babies of Florence have been baptized. It is octagonal in structure, and is supposed to be built on the site of a temple to Mars. The celebrated bronze door of Ghiberti faces the Cathedral. It represents, in bas-relief, ten scenes from the Bible, and is in truth a work of art, each figure being a miniature statue, while the border is worthy of a master-hand, completing a whole which Michael Angelo considered worthy to be the gate of Paradise. The Uffizi Gallery is situated on one side of the Arno, the Pitti Gallery on the other, the two being connected by a covered passage way over the “Old Bridge.” In the Uffizi we find the statues of Venus de’ Medici, the Greek ideal of feminine grace and beauty, many paintings by Rubens, Van Dyke, and other northern painters, also some of the best works of Titian, Raphael, and Leonardo da Vinci. The Pitti Gallery contains a greater number of master-pieces than any other collection in Italy, and comparatively fewer works of inferior merit.

From her massive gilded frame Raphael’s “Madonna of the Chair,” looks down with her lovely eyes and saintly smile, while she holds close to her heart with all a mother’s love and devotion, the little Christ Child who clings to her with a child’s loving trust and confidence.

The most delightful place in or about Florence, is the Cascine, or Park, which lies just out...
PERSEVERANCE.

[FROM THE INDEX.]

It is good to have ambition, but ambition without perseverance is worth but little.
Spasmodic exertion will accomplish nothing.
It is only continued effort that deserves reward.
On the road to success there are many obstances to surmount, and it is well that it is so; for who values highly that which is easily won?
Every time we overcome a difficulty we gain strength to overcome the next. So each obstacle surmounted is a monument raised to our honor.
The consciousness of added strength and duty done is of itself a reward well worth having.
Place your ideal high, but never despair if you do not quite reach it; for “Our greatest glory consists not in never falling, but in rising every time we fail.”

S U P P L I C A T I O N .

[WRITTEN FOR THE INDEX.]

O Savoir, in my youth,
Teach me to learn thy truth;
Through Nature great;
Let me forever see,
Whether in grief or glee,
That thou art Fate.
And when my path in life,
Seems naught but present strife
And future care;
When I of health am shorn
And strength seems too far worn
My head to bear,
When trusted friends prove vain,
And bitterness keeps raw
Within my breast,
When brightened hopes impel
My sad soul to rebel
At thy behest,
Oh, turn thou not away,
But, in thy mercy, stay
The storm’s wild beat,
And, with its force subdued,
In penitential mood
Bring to thy feet,
And teach me to control
My tempest shaken soul
Against Fate’s frown;
Make me bear patiently
The cross thou givest me
And wait the crown.

—MARGARET GRAHAM.

Before the publication of our first issue, many speculations were uttered regarding our possible success. The fact that over three hundred copies were disposed of in the Normal alone, speaks volumes for our enterprise.

ALMOST every one is familiar with the proverb, “Those who live in glass houses should never throw stones,” and perhaps it would be interesting to many to know its origin. The following is taken from The Youth’s Companion. It is said to date back to the time when James VI. of Scotland became James I. of England. London was full of Scotchmen who had followed their royal master to the metropolis in hope of receiving from him place and profit.
The notorious George Villiers, afterwards Duke of Buckingham, was the favorite of James, and he hated the Scotch with the hatred that comes from jealousy. Among other expedients which he devised to vex them, was the organization of nightly parties to smash their windows. The Scotch, discovering who was the leader of these disturbances, determined on revenge. A party of them went one night to Villiers’ residence, which from its many windows, was known as the “Glass House,” and broke every pane of glass therein. Villiers was angry, and appealed to the king for redress. His Majesty heard his complaint, and then replied, “Steam, steam, those who live in glass houses should be careful how they fling stones.”

THE NORMAL LIBRARY.

During the last session of the Legislature, an appropriation of $500 a year for two years was voted for the purpose of making additions to the library of the San Jose Normal School. Some of the books sent for have already arrived, and others are expected soon. For the reception of the new books, the library has been re-arranged, new cases have been added, old books taken down and recatalogued—a labor involving much time and attention. We publish a list of some of the books received, among which will be found many of special interest to students in their school work.

REFERENCE.

Skeat’s Etymological Dictionary of the English Language.
The Dickens Dictionary, Pierce & Wheeler.
Allison’s Quotations and Authors, set of 3 vols.
Allison’s Dictionary of Literature and Authors.
Practical Cyclopedia of Quotations.
Concordance to Shakespeare’s Poems, Furness.

LITERATURE.

Studies in German Literature, B. Taylor.
Best Reading, T. B. Perkins, 1st and 2d series.
Yesterdays with Authors, Fields.
The Spelling Reform, Gladstone.
Welsh’s English Literature, 2 vols.
Craft’s English of Shakespeare.
Modern French Writers, Masson.
Hints on Home Reading, E. E. Hale and others.
Literature Primers, 10 numbers.
Introduction to Literature of Europe, Hallam, 2 vols.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>FICTION</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Blithedale Romance, Hawthorne.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Early Dawn, Mrs. Charles.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Last of the Barons, Bulwer.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ramona, Helen Hunt Jackson.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Fair God, Lew Wallace.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Uncle Tom’s Cabin, Mrs. Stowe.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pearl of Orr’s Island, Mrs. Stowe.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Faith Gartney’s Girlhood, Mrs. Whitney.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patience Strong’s Outings, Mrs. Whitney.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Other Girls, Mrs. Whitney.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Guardian Angel, Holmes.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Else Venner, Holmes.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Their Wedding Journey, Howells.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Shadow of the Sword, Robert Buchanan.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Robert Falconer, McDonald.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sir Gibbie, MacDonald.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Malcolm, MacDonald.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marquis of Lossie.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pride of Lammersmoor, Scott.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Silent Partner, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gates Ajar, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Arthur Bonnycastle, Holland.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sevenoaks, Holland.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Septimus Felton, Hawthorne.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wide, Wide, World, Warner.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Old Fashioned Girl, Alcott.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Little Men, Alcott.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Work, Alcott.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Landford and Merton, Day.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ten Times One is Ten, E. E. Hale.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>In His Name, E. E. Hale.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Off the Skelly, Joan Ingelow.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Don John, Ingelow.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>POETRY</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Dante’s Inferno, translation by Longfellow.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>HISTORY</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Age of Chivalry, Bulfinch.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Old English History, Freeman.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nineteenth Century, Mackenzie.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>America, Mackenzie.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Book of Golden Deeds, Yonge.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>History Prices—Europe, Old Greek Life, Roman Antiquity, France, and Medieval Civilization.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Russia under the Czars, Stepanik.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Underground Russia, Stepanik.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Middle Ages, Hallam, 2 vols.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jesuits in North America, Parkman.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Youth’s History of the Civil War, Champlin.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Famous Indians, Eggleson, 2 vols.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marion and his Men, Wheat.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>GENERAL LITERATURE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Self Culture, John Stuart Blackie.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Back Log Studies, Warner.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tales from Shakespeare, Lamb.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Scott’s Election.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Little Fuses, Miss Stowe.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>On the Threshold, Munger.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wealth of Nations, Adam Smith.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mixed Essays, Matthew Arnold.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Excursions in Field and Forest, Thoreau.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Iliad, translation by Bryant.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Odyssey, translation by Bryant.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Longfellow’s Prose Works, 2 vols.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Naturalists of Christ, Hughes.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Student’s Mythology, White.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Popular Handbooks—Conversation, Punctuation, Insects, and Water Analysis.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Century, vols. 23, 24, 25, 30, 27, 28.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. Nicholas, as far back as bound volumes can be had.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Literary Criticism, DeQuincey.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Getting on in the World.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SCIENCE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>What Our Girls Ought to Know, Studley.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Goodale’s Vegetable Histology and Physiology, forming 2d vol. of Gray’s Revised Botany Series, Wonders of Plant Life, Herrick.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Our Native Ferns and Their Allies, Underwood.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Flowers and their Pedigree, Grant Allen.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Forms of Water, Tyndall.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>British Wild Flowers in Relation to Insects.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colors of Flowers, Grant Allen.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hygiene for Girls, Davis.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Geological Excursions, Winchell.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Heavens Above, Giflet &amp; Rolfe.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PROFESSIONAL</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Methods in Teaching, Fitch.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Outlines of Psychology, Sully.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The World at Home, Readers, Nos. I and II.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meths. Teaching Geography, Lucretia Crocker.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>True Order of Studies, T. Hill.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Education as a Science, Baine.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meths. of Teaching and Studying History, Hall.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Teaching and Teachers, Trumbull.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Education to Relat’n to Manual Ind., MacArthur.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Principes of Education, Sewell.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Physical Education, Oswald.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
THE NORMAL INDEX.

GOLDEN RULE BOOK STORE.
156 South First Street, San Jose, Cal. Near the Normal.

E. J. GILLESPIE

BOOKS.

BOOKS.
A full stock of Books, and other supplies for all the schools in the vicinity of San Jose.

STATIONERY.

STATIONERY.
Stationery, Ink of all colors, Envelopes, Pencils, Pads, Steel & Stenographic Pans.

CARDS.

CARDS.
Birthday, Visiting, Marriage, Congratulations, Merit & Reward Cards.

FANCY GOODS AND ALBUMS OF ALL KINDS

THE FAIR.

THE PLACE OF A THOUSAND BARGAINS

Brushes, Combs,
Pen Knives, Tooth Brushes, Jewelry,
Perfumery, Notions.

EVERYBODY INVITED TO CALL & SEE THE CURiosITIES AT THE FAIR.
All kinds of Boots & Shoes Made to Order. School Shoes a Specialty.

CO-OPERATIVE SHOP
Wesley Fanning, Manager

J. G. Gosbee
Supervisor and Dealer in
Pianos, Organs, and all kinds of Musical Merchandise.

GEO. LENDRUM
Supervisor and Dealer in
Groceries & Provisions,
Glassware, Lamps, Crockery,
TEAS, ETC.

San Jose Candy Factory,
N. L. O'Brien
Wholesale and Retail

CO-OPERATIVE SHOP
Wesley Fanning, Manager

GEO. LENDRUM
Supervisor and Dealer in
Groceries & Provisions,
Glassware, Lamps, Crockery,
TEAS, ETC.

No. 10 North First Street,
San Jose, California

EASTERN BAKERY
23 E. Santa Clara Street, San Jose.

W. Stillman,
General Collector

71 East Santa Clara Street, San Jose.

W. Stillman,
General Collector

J. S. Macaulay
Loryea & Macaulay,

Souvenir

51 First Street,
San Jose, Cal.

Class Pictures a Specialty.

San Jose Candy Factory,
N. L. O'Brien
Wholesale and Retail

Candy Manufacturer,
No. 10 First St., South, San Jose, Cal.

JOHNSON & TUPPER,
BOOK & JOB PRINTERS.

Estab. 1858.
Washington Block.

Spaw & Whipple,
DENTISTS,

Safa Deposit Building, Southeast Corner of First and Santa Clara streets.

San Jose, California

Charles Oeckel
DEALER IN
Wood, Coal and Hay
Cor. Santa Clara and Fifth Sts.
SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA

Goods Delivered Promptly to all parts of the City
TRADE AT OSTERMAN'S SHOE STORE.
No. 13 South First Street      San Jose, Cal.

LARGE ASSORTMENT OF FINE SHOES

GRENELL & BEAUMONT.
Established by H. J. RHODES & Co.

PHARMACY & Apothecaries
13 and 15 West Santa Clara Streeet.
San Jose, California.

ST. JAMES HOTEL.
SAN JOSE, CAL'A.
TYLER BEACH, Proprietor.

This Hotel is elegantly furnished with all the modern improvements. The rooms are large, airy, and beautifully located. In front of St. James Park, next door to the Court House. No expense has been spared in making this a favorite hotel in every respect.

AMERICAN PLAN.
Rates—$1.50 and $2.00 per Day. Special Prices by the Week or Month.
Coach and Currage at Depot on arrival of all Trains.

JOE POHEIM, the Tailor,
MAKES THE BEST CLOTHES IN THE STATE.

His prices are very low. A perfect fit guaranteed or no sale.
Suits made to order from $20.
Pants to order from $10.
Fine dress suits to order from $85.
Overcoats made to order from $17.

(The picture here)

THE NORMAL INDEX
Published Monthly by
The Senior Classes of the State Normal School
San Jose, California.

It is the best medium for Local Advertisers because it is read by all students, and others interested in educational matters. It also reaches a larger number of teachers than any other journal in the State.

For Advertising Rates, apply to
L. J. Lanuwer, Business Manager.

For Subscription Rates, apply to
H. G. Spear, Assistant Manager,
State Normal School.

Normal Students Will Find it to their Advantage to Trade at

THE TRADE PALACE!
A FULL LINE OF CLOAKS AND DRESS GOODS, HOSIERY, LACES & FANCY GOODS JUST RECEIVED.

No. 40 South First Street, San Jose, Cal'a.
L. Madsen & Bro.
E. B. LEWIS,
NEWSDEALER AND STATIONER
San Jose, Cal.

T. W. HOBSON & CO.
CLOTHIERS AND MERCHANT TAILORS.
Nos. 41 to 51, West Santa Clara Street.
Opp. Anzerais House, San Jose, Cal.

G. BOHLAND, MERCHANT TAILOR
FINEST FOREIGN & DOMESTIC SUITINGS.
Opposite Anzerais House.
San Jose, California.

HOLLY & SMITH,
Dealers in
First Class Boots and Shoes
11 E. Santa Clara St., under the Town Clock.
San Jose, Cal.

LEVY BROS' GREAT BARGAIN HOUSE
Manufacturers and Dealers in Clothing, Gents Furnishing Goods
HATS, BOOTS, ETC.
MERCHANT TAILORING — A — SPECIALLY STRICTLY ONE PRICE.
4 and 56 First Street, South, under Lick House.

The Largest Assortment! The Best Goods!

BARGAINS IN DRY AND FANCY GOODS
Can always be found
AT THE "CITY OF SAN JOSE," LOEB & ETCHEBARNE, Northeast Corner of First and Fountain Streets.
San Jose, Cal.

John B. Alden's Cheap Book Store.
Mittell's Store Filling Patterns.
Celluloid Collars and Cuffs.

Do You Want To Earn Money?
A Penny Saved is a Penny Earned.
IF YOU WANT ANYTHING IN THE Line of Drugs, Perfumes, Chemicals, Etc.
Try the
DRUG CASH STORE.
32 North First Street, under N. Y. Exchange.
S. B. WARDEN.

STUDENTS ALL GO TO DYER'S
FOR FINE CANDIES.
Near Corner Second.